How to search?

- Start from your library's homepage
- The default search will search for materials in your institution's library. Choose the tab 'All libraries' if you want to search in all BIBSYS libraries.

The screenshot shows the search interface with two tabs: 'My library' (selected) and 'All libraries'. Below the tabs is a search input field, a 'Search' button, and links for 'Advanced Search' and 'Browse Search'.

- Type the keywords you are searching for, i.e. global warming.
- Quotation marks, eg. "Global warming" can be used to specify a specific phrase.

The screenshot shows the search interface with the 'My library' tab selected. The search input field contains the text 'Global warming'. An orange arrow points from the search input field to the 'Search' button.

Useful tips

You can search for books, articles, periodicals, music, movies, electronic resources, etc. from your library, or from any BIBSYS library.

Too many hits?

After a search, you have the opportunity to refine the search results based on what you are interested in (printed or electronic materials, articles, etc.)

Limit your search

- Your result list can be very comprehensive, so it might be useful to limit your results by different criteria (subject, source, material type, language, year of publication etc.) depending on what material you are looking for
- You can for instance choose to show full text documents only

The screenshot shows a search interface with a left sidebar and a main results area. The sidebar has two sections: 'Expand My Results' and 'Refine My Results'. In the 'Expand My Results' section, the 'Full Text Online' option is selected and highlighted with an orange box. The 'Refine My Results' section shows various filters like 'Resource Type', 'Creator/contributor', and 'Creation Date'. The main results area displays several search results for 'Global Warming', each with a 'Full text available' indicator and a 'View Online' link.

- Your result list will be refined to show full text documents only. The chosen limiter can easily be removed by clicking the x behind the facet:

This screenshot shows the same search interface as the previous one, but with the 'Refined by' facet highlighted by an orange box. The facet shows 'top level: Full Text Online' with a small 'x' icon to its right, indicating that the search results are now filtered to show only full-text documents.
